Bush to Brief Carter

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)

— President Ford instructed today the Director of Central Intelligence, George Bush, to give Mr. Carter an intelligence briefing next week.

In making the announcement at the White House, the President's press spokesman, Ron Nessen, said that Mr. Bush would go to Plains next Wednesday for the briefing. Mr. Nessen said that Mr. Bush would provide the same information to the Democratic Vice-Presidential nominee, Senator Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, if the Senator so desired.

Such briefings are usually provided through the Secretary of State. Mr. Carter, however, said he would prefer getting his briefing through the Central Intelligence Agency rather than through Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, whose policies he has criticized.
